BACKGROUND

Martine began her career in education, teaching both in Taiwan and the United States. Later she pursued an opportunity to open and manage a project-based, alternative education program for the YMCA of the Pikes Peak Region, Intel and the Museum of Science in Boston. Martine's experience and accomplishments spear-heading and managing 501-3C programs and working in the non-profit environment include generating over a million dollars in grant funding, successfully keeping projects and programs under budget and meeting all project schedules and specifications.

Today, Martine enjoys utilizing her skills, experiences, and passion for learning to continually find ways to improve the efficiency and quality of both the products and services provided by Open Range Construction Co. She encourages responsibility, professional development and personal growth and considers it her personal mission to change the face of the construction industry.
